

Let's practise using question tags, shall we?

i Question tags are used when you expect the other person to agree with you. Or when we want to turn a statement into a question. If the statement is positive, we use a negative question tag. For example: This is Lisa, isn't it? When the statement is negative, we use a positive question tag. For example. He has never been to Scotland, has he? Question tags are used more when speaking than in writing.

i Use the same verb in the question tag as in the question: He is...isn't he? She does...doesn't she? Careful: When the question uses "Will..." the question tag is "won't you" For example: He will come with his dog, won't he? If the sentence does not use a verb you can use as a question tag, use don't/doesn't. For example: He knows you, doesn't he? AND If the question starts with "Let's..." the question tag is "shall we?" For example: Let's practise question tags, shall we?

i

We are watching a movie tonight, _____ we?

- don't
- doesn't
- do i

You can speak Arabic, _____ you?

- can't
- haven't
- can

i

You will visit your big sister next summer, _____ you?

- won't
- doesn't
- don't

i

She is never on time, _____ she?

- is
- are
- were

i

You are in eighth grade, _____ you?

- don't
- aren't
- are

You couldn't tell me the way to the cinema, _____ you?

- couldn't
- have
- could

If I join the team, I would have to train every day, _____ I?

You do love her, _____ you?

This was such a good meal, _____ it?

- was
- wasn't
- don't

You could call her, _____ you?

- can
- could
- couldn't

I am never late for class, _____ I?

- aren't
- am
- do

He has no brother, _____ he?

- hasn't
- has
- have

The hobby shop didn't close, _____ it?

None of you were feeling lonely at holiday camp, _____ you?

