

Practise using the modal verb "should"!

i We use "should" to give advice, recommendations or talk about expectations and obligations we have.

For example: You should close your window, it is going to rain. -> recommendation

Paul should practise the new words for tomorrow's vocabulary test. -> advice

I should get home at 7pm. -> expectation

Should is followed by the infinitive like all modal verbs.

To negate a sentence use "should not" or shorten this to "shouldn't".

For example: He shouldn't come late tomorrow, we start on time!
