

Practise the present perfect continuous!

i We use the present perfect continuous when we want to say that something started in the past and is still continuing now.

And to talk about a past action which recently stopped.

The present perfect continuous is formed with "has/have been" + "the ing-form of the verb" (present participle).
For example: I have been watching the TV series for a month now. OR I am wet. It has been raining.

?

I have been _____ chess recently.

- learn
- learned
- learning

?

Lately, Lucas has been _____ for the junior marathon.

- trained
- training
- train

?

She _____ been cooking all evening, so dinner is ready soon.

- has
- have
- had

?

They _____ been building the new school for a year now.

- has
- was
- have

?

Marie has been _____ the piano a lot lately.

- practised
- practise
- practising

?

We have _____ looking after Lilly a lot lately.

- are
- been
- be

?

Dad _____ been exercising for hours!

- have
- has
- do

?

We have been _____ about you.

- think
- thinking
- thinkin

?

They have been _____ on this project for a long time.

- work
- working
- works

?

She has _____ gaming a lot recently.

- been
- was
- were

?

Louisa _____ been waiting for ten minutes already.

- has
- have
- were

?

Have you been _____ the News lately?

- watching
- watch
- watched

?

I have _____ renovating my bedroom recently.

- been
- was
- done