

Let's practise using "take time to" to improve your English!

i We use the expression "take time to" to say that something needs time to do. For example: It takes time to write a book.

We can also use it to say: "Take your time" which means don't hurry, you have as much time as you need.

It is also possible to say: Suzy didn't even take the time to do her homework. It is often used to say that you are annoyed that a person didn't do something well or carefully enough.

i

You have to _____ your time when getting to know a horse.

- take
- make
- taken

i

Don't rush, Lucy. Just take your _____!

- times
- time

i

Ben didn't even _____ the time to congratulate her on her birthday!

- taken
- takes
- take

i

Learning to ski _____ time.

- taken
- takes

i

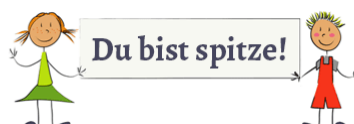

Don't give up, learning a new language _____ time!

- takes
- take
- took

i

Oh, this is difficult. Can we take as much _____ as we want?

- tim
- time
- times

?

No rush, just take your _____!

- a time
- time

?

It _____ time to finish a good painting.

- takes
- take
- taken

?

He didn't even _____ the time to explain the exercise properly!

- taken
- takes
- take

?

Getting fit takes _____!

- times
- time
- timer

?

My nephew didn't even _____ the time to say thank you!

- take
- takes

?

It _____ time to learn cooking.

- the take
- takes
- take

?

Mrs Smith said that we can _____ our time.

- took
- takes
- take